Dr. Raymond Allan, Dean
708 Jackson Place, N. W.
Washington, D. C.

As former Director of the Psychological Strategy Board
at the time of your appointment.

1. Was it understood that you were to be only temporarily employed as Director or did you accept with the understanding of an unlimited tenure?

2. Do you believe that a Director of the Psychological Strategy Board can do a proper job on a temporary assignment?

3. What percentage of the policies of the programs studied by the Board has been accepted by the Departments charged with implementation?

(A) While you were the Director.

(B) During the Board's existence.

4. Can an effective program of psychological warfare be conducted within the present framework of government?

5. Do you have any recommendations for changes in the program or setup beneficial to the national security?

6. Has the Psychological Strategy Board given attention to the various projects brought to its attention by private citizens?

7. What percentage of projects brought to the attention of the Board by private citizens has had merit?

8. What percentage of projects by private citizens has had implementation by the CIA--what percentage by the State Department--what percentage by the Pentagon?

9. What percentage of projects recommended by the Board has been adopted by (a) the State Department, (b) the CIA and
(c) the Pentagon?

10. Has the whole problem of psychological strategy in your opinion been given the proper attention by the authorities in government in Washington?

An early reply will be appreciated. It is not my intention to ask you for any answer that will effect the general welfare and security of the United States.
